SPEKULATION ANNOUNCES RELEASE OF NEW EP

“Truth Be Told” scheduled for release February 26

SEATTLE, WA– Seattle Hip Hop artist Spekulation announces the upcoming release of his new EP “Truth Be Told.” The six-track recording, his fourth, will be available for download on February 26.

“Truth Be Told” is a commentary of the complicated times we live in, as well as a celebration of possibility. The songs, an intelligent weave of soul, outrage, grit and optimism, are groove-driven reflections on themes such as past relationships, future generations, gun violence and squaring with one’s own destiny. While his previous projects have highlighted the blend of sampling and instrumentation, “Truth Be Told” marks a return to the pure sample-based production of Spekulation’s musical roots and New Jersey upbringing. “Remember,” the first single from the EP, premiered on KUBE radio on December 2 and has generated favorable buzz throughout social media and across the regional music community.

To help promote the release of “Truth Be Told,” Spekulation will be appearing with the New York-based Hip Hop duo Club Lo at Neumos on January 16. This performance is part of Camp Lo’s 15th Anniversary Tour. Ticket information for this show can be found on the Neumos website: <http://neumos.com>.

Spekulation is a Seattle-based emcee, producer and Hip Hop artist, who blends sampling and live musical instrumentation to create musical performances that are both spontaneous and exciting. Originally from New Jersey, Spekulation made his Seattle debut in 2009. He has released three critically-acclaimed EP’s and has collaborated with a variety of Northwest artists including Nate Omdal, DJ Absolute Madman and Michele Khazak For more information, please visit: <http://spekulationmusic.com/>.
